Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 12 Feb 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Windy and feeling very cold today and tomorrow.

Today:
Another very cold and windy day across the UK. Most areas will be dry with bright or sunny spells, but snow showers will affect parts of northern and eastern Scotland and northeast England.

Tonight:
Further snow showers across northern and eastern Scotland and parts of northeast England. Otherwise, a dry night with clear spells. Windy and colder than last night.

Saturday:
Dry for many but outbreaks of snow will develop over Northern Ireland during the morning and then spread into southwest England, Wales and western Scotland later.

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Windy with rain and hill snow spreading eastward on Sunday, freezing rain for many central and eastern areas. Milder Monday with a few showers before rain spreads eastward early Tuesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.